EVERYDAY SERIES

Everyday Weather 2

Level A2

Sentence Flashcards

Ages 6–10

Bridge · stormy and rainbow stormy and rainbow

Tiny story

It is stormy. Max stays inside. Then the rain stops. The sun comes out. Look! A rainbow!

After the storm, sunlight shone through the raindrops.

Ask: What colours are in a rainbow?

sun

rain

rainbow

You see a rainbow because sunlight shines through raindrops.

Raindrops change sunlight into seven colours.

If tomorrow is sunny but dry, will we see a rainbow? Why not?

It rained this morning, but then the sun came out, so a rainbow appeared.

Bridge · rainbow and foggy

rainbow

and foggy

Compare

A rainbow is easy to see. In foggy weather, it is hard to see. Rainbow: so bright! Fog: so grey.

A rainbow needs sun, but fog hides the sun.

Say it: I can see the rainbow. I can't see in the fog.

lamp

fog

Foggy

Cars drive more slowly in fog because it is hard to see.

The fog will go away when the sun warms the air.

Why does fog disappear later in the morning?

It was very foggy, and the street lamps looked like ghosts.

Bridge · foggy and hot

foggy

and hot

Tiny story

In the morning, it is foggy. Then the sun comes out. The fog goes away. Now it is very hot.

The sun warmed the air, so the fog went away.

Ask: What do you do on a hot day?

melting

puddle

hot

The warm air makes the ice cream soft, so it melts.

On a very hot day, it melts faster.

Why does ice cream melt faster on a hot day?

Today is hotter than yesterday, so my ice cream is melting fast.

Bridge · hot and cold

hot

and cold

Compare

When it is hot, I drink cold water. When it is cold, I drink warm milk. Hot days and cold days.

Today is hotter than yesterday.

Say it: It is hot. It is cold.

gloves

jacket

cold

Cold air turns my warm breath into a little white cloud.

A thick jacket keeps warm air close to my body.

Why can you see your breath on a cold day?

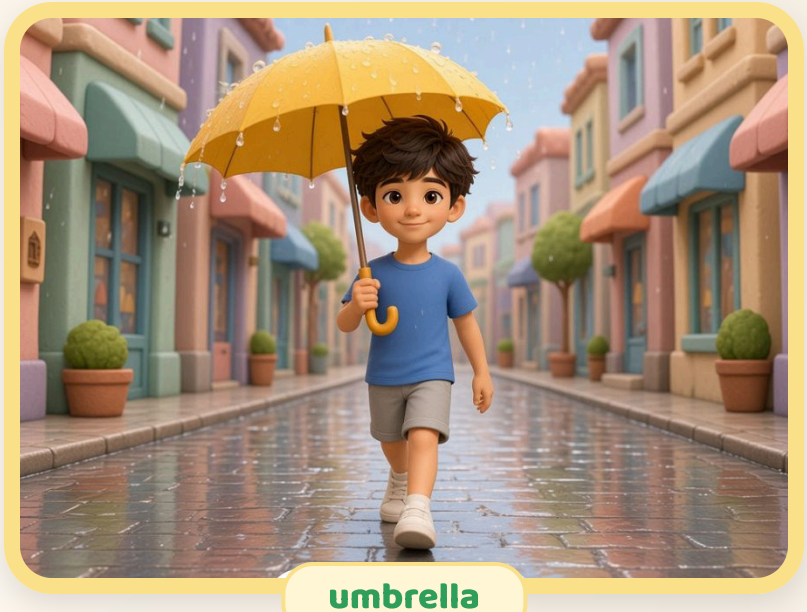

This morning was colder than yesterday, so I put on my warmest jacket.

Bridge · cold and umbrella

cold

and umbrella

Tiny story

It is cold and grey. Pitter-patter! Rain falls. Max opens his umbrella.

It will rain later, so I will take my umbrella.

Say it: It is raining. I open my umbrella.

raindrops

wet street

umbrella

Rain runs off an umbrella because it is waterproof.

I stayed dry yesterday because I had my umbrella.

Why does the rain slide off an umbrella?

It will rain this afternoon, so I will take my umbrella to school.

Bridge · umbrella and raincoat

umbrella

and raincoat

Compare

An umbrella keeps my head dry. A raincoat keeps my body dry. I use both in the rain!

A raincoat is better than an umbrella on a windy day.

Ask: What do you wear in the rain?

rain boots

splash

raincoat

A raincoat is waterproof, so water can't get through.

Boots are taller than shoes, so puddles can't get my feet wet.

What will you wear if it rains tomorrow, and why?

I wore my red raincoat and boots, so I stayed dry in the rain.

Worksheet 2 · What do I wear?

Look at the clothes. Write the weather. Word bank: sunny · rainy · snowy · cold · hot · windy sunglasses

I will wear my sunglasses because it will be _____.

umbrella

I will take my umbrella because it will be _____.

raincoat & boots

I will wear my raincoat & boots because it will be _____.

hat & scarf

I will wear my hat & scarf because it will be _____.

jacket & gloves

I will wear my jacket & gloves because it will be _____.

T-shirt & shorts

I will wear my T-shirt & shorts because it will be _____.

Worksheet 3 · My weather forecast

Look at the pictures. Write about yesterday, today and tomorrow.

Yesterday

It rained / It was …

_____

_____

Today

It is …

_____

_____

Tomorrow

It will …

_____

_____

Compare! Write hotter, colder, windier or sunnier.

1. Summer is _____ than winter. 2. Winter is _____ than spring.

3. Today is _____ than yesterday because _____ .

Story time · After the rain

After school, Max put on his raincoat and jumped in the biggest puddle.

Suddenly the rain stopped, and the sun came out again.

Max saw a rainbow because the sun was shining through the last raindrops.

At home, he drew the weather because he wanted to remember his day.

The sky was clear that night, so Mum said it would be colder tomorrow.

Max went to sleep happy: "Tomorrow I will wear my warm coat!"

★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Thank you for learning with Everyday Weather.

Rain or shine, keep talking!

Everyday Weather 2 · Level A2 · Sentence Flashcards